

Debriefing Script

This study is designed to examine several different interpersonal communication measures. During your participation, you responded to statements about different aspects of interaction with others (e.g., initiating conversations, keeping them going, and ending them). You also rated yourself on four different job skill areas: Communication (reading, writing, oral), Analytical Inquiry (research, information literacy), Collaboration (working in groups, leadership), and Professional Development (self-management, technology). The primary goal of this study is to establish baselines for each of the measures. In other words, we are in the process of identifying typical scores and score ranges for each skill.

Thank you very much for your participation! We could not have conducted this study without your help!

Please feel free to contact Dr. Jerry Rudmann, jerryrudmann@gmail.com, or Dr. Katherine Wickes, (katherine.wickes@blinn.edu, (979-209-7331) if you have any additional questions about this study.

Thank you for your cooperation. Have a great day!
